While wiring up my front doors for the courtesy lamps I thought it would be nice to post some pics of how to remove the door panel. If your door looks anything like this then it should apply to you:

First pop the SRS badge off the airbag cover:

take out the screw behind it:

Pull the outer part of the grab handle until it comes off, it's not easy but you can slip a screwdriver in the gap at the top to ease it out, be careful as the panel is very easy to damage.

Behind that is two more screws, top and bottom, take them out:

take the screw off the plastic piece around the lock end of the door:

then take the plastic piece off:

pull the panel away from the door, carefully but firmly all the way around the panel, it will pop as each clip comes out of it's respective eye. When the whole panel has come loose, release the inner door handle by pushing the gold hook down through the lever then slip the cable under the clip:

one naked door!

Put the panel somewhere safe where it won't get damaged:

To put the panel back, read this thread backwards!

Here is a nice pic of the before/after merged:
